

United States District Court Southern District of California

Frequently Asked Questions:

1) Are your contract interpreters approved for CJA work?

Our Court does not have a formal approval process for CJA interpreter work. It is up to the attorney to verify that any interpreter they plan to use meets the requirements set by statute or by the Court for judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings. Some of our contract interpreters have been previously used by our Panel and are already set up in the Court's CJA eVoucher system. Contract Interpreters used by our Court, Probation, and Pre-trial Services, must sign a contract not to double bill for work done on any single day, for the same block of time, for additional work done for any other federally funded organization (including CJA, Federal Defenders or the US Attorney's Office).
